

ROOSEVELT AT LOUISVILLE.

All Honor Paid to the Chief Executive at Our Metropolis.

Happy Introduction of President By Governor Beckham

PINE TRIBUTE TO BLUE AND GRAY.

President Roosevelt was Louisville's guest yesterday for two strenuous, delightful hours and the proud metropolis of Kentucky did our chief executive all honor.

The President's train arrived over the Louisville and Nashville at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and the procession was formed as soon as his party could be conducted to the grand stand at Third and A streets, where Acting Mayor Paul Barth extended a brief welcome. Five hundred school children, lined up on Broadway, sang "My Old Kentucky Home."

Upon arrival of the President's train the President's salute of twenty-one guns was fired and this became the spring of boundless enthusiasm all over the city.

The parade was formed as follows:

- FIRST SECTION.
Mounted police (24 men.)
Grand Marshal.
Slober's Band.
Drum and Trumpet Corps.
K. M. I. Cadets.
SECOND SECTION.
Wehrley's Band.
Mounted Civilians with President's Colors.
Carriages containing Loyal Legion, G. A. R. and Confederate Veterans.
President, surrounded by sixty police on foot, (ten mounted police behind second carriage.)
Eight carriages containing his party and those assigned to accompany it.
THIRD SECTION.
Band.
Carriages, two abreast, containing invited guests and committee-men.

The chief ceremonies took place at the courthouse steps where the President was introduced by Gov. Beckham in happy vein as follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: Not only the people of Louisville, but the people of all Kentucky rejoice today in welcoming among us the President of this great republic. Regardless of all political differences we are here to do honor, not only to the Chief Magistrate of this country, but also to Theodore Roosevelt, the man." (Great applause.)

"We recognize his eminent patriotism, his integrity, his fearlessness, and we all believe him to be a friend of the great common people throughout this country. We also look forward to him during the next four years as the ruler of this republic, to obliterate the last faint line of sectional differences that may exist in this country. (Applause.) I believe that it is in the power of this great man, who more than any other President since the big brained and big hearted Lincoln, holds the affections and the confidence of the people of this country—I say, I believe it is more in his power than in the power of any other man to establish beyond question the fact that there is no North, no South, no East and no West in this country. (Applause.)

"I shall not withhold longer the chief attraction of this occasion, and I present to you the President of the United States, the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt." (Loud and prolonged applause.) Mr. Roosevelt responded in an impromptu speech prompted by sentiments of the occasion. He said in part:

"Governor Beckham, and you, my fellow Americans. (Applause.) Surely any man would indeed be gratified to be greeted in this way by such an audience, and be introduced as you have introduced me, Governor Beckham. (Applause.)

"As the Governor has so well said, upon all the important questions, the questions that infinitely transcend mere partisan differences, we are fundamentally one. (Applause.)

"For in the question of foreign and internal politics, the points upon which there can be no proper division on party lines infinitely exceed in number those upon which there can be such division, and, Governor Beckham, I shall do all that in me lies to justify the hope to which you have given expression and to try to show myself the President of all the people of the United States." (Prolonged applause.)

"And, naturally, I feel peculiarly gratified at seeing, here, today, joined in this procession, the men who wore the Blue and the men who wore the Gray. (Great applause.)

"In the dark days—now, keep just as quiet as you can; you won't be able to do anything more than see me, anyhow. (Laughter and applause.) In the dark days each of you fought for the right as it was given him to see the right (a voice, "That's right,") and each of you has left us the right to feel pride not only in your valor, but in your devotion to what you conscientiously believed your duty. (Great applause.)

"And now we are all one (cheers and long continued applause,) and as a reunited people we have the right to feel the same pride in the valor of the man who conscientiously risked his life in the Confederate uniform, that we have in the man who fought in the Blue. (Applause.) And as I passed by your ranks, oh, my friends in Gray, today, and saluted the flag of our common country, held up by a man in the gray uniform, I felt indeed we are one, and that we have been able to show mankind that the greatest war of the century can be followed by the most perfect union that any nation now knows." (Great applause.)

Three handsome souvenirs of historic value were quietly presented to the President during his stay in Louisville. They were a silver flagon filled with water from the spring on Lincoln's birthplace; an inkstand made from wood grown on the Abraham Lincoln farm and mounted in silver by a Louisville jeweler; a beautiful silver vase of special design.

GOLDEN CROSS WILL MEET.

Arrangements Complete for Coming of the Kentucky Grand Commandery.

Big Public Meeting Arranged for Temple Theatre Thursday.

EARLINGTON AGAIN TO THE FORE.

As has been previously extensively announced in THE BEE, the Sixth Biennial session of the Grand Commandery of Kentucky, United Order of Golden Cross, will be held in Earlinton Wednesday and Thursday next, April 12 and 13.

Earlington Commandery, No. 525 will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening for the purpose of exemplifying the work of the order upon a class now waiting initiation. The degree team of the commandery is composed of ladies who are said to have reached a high degree of proficiency.

Earlington people are proverbially hospitable to the friendly stranger within our gates and all officers and representatives of the Golden Cross will be entertained free of cost during their stay here. Several hundred delegates and visitors are expected.

The public meeting at Temple Theatre on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock is the chief feature of the occasion, at least so far as concerns those not initiated into the secrets of the order. At this meeting a rousing reception will be given by the city of Earlinton to the Grand Commandery. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend this meeting and a movement is on foot to have the business houses close during the hour of meeting.

The program will be as follows:

1. Music. Song by the Earlinton Choir.
2. Invocation—Rev. H. J. Brazleton.
3. Welcome Address—Sir Knight W. F. Burr, Mayor.

12. Toasts by Supreme, Grand Officers and members.
- Adjournment.

The following are official announcements made by officers of Earlinton Commandery:

To Citizens of Earlinton.

During two days, twelfth and thirteenth of April, members of the Supreme and Grand Lodges of the Golden Cross will meet in session in our city. Between the hours of nine and ten o'clock on the morning of the thirteenth a public reception is to be held at Temple Theatre. As this is the first time the executive officers of any of the great fraternal ordars of our country have held a session in Earlinton, we ask that during the hour of the reception our merchants close their places of business to permit employees to attend services at the theatre. As the membership in attendance will come from Maine, New Hampshire, Tennessee, and Kentucky, and the gentlemen and ladies are representative citizens of the communities in which they reside we are desirous that courtesies for which the citizens of Earlinton are noted may be extended to the visitors.

Respectfully,
J. T. EZZEL, N. C.

DWELLING BURNS.

Miss Ella Johnson's Residence Burned in Madisonville Saturday Afternoon.

Miss Ella Johnson, who kept a boarding house on Union street in Madisonville, had the misfortune to lose her house by fire Saturday afternoon. The fire was caused by a small boy who was visiting at the house setting fire to a barrel containing straw and saw dust. In a brief space of time the fire had gained such headway it was impossible to extinguish it. A hose from the corner of Center street was attached to the fire plug and a heavy stream of water was played on the adjacent houses and they were prevented from burning. Fortunately there was no was no wind blowing. The property was insured for $1,200 and was worth $1,800. Nearly everything in the house was lost. Miss Johnson has moved to the Christy residence temporarily, but will rebuild on the same site as soon as possible.

While discussing a recent theatrical venture that failed because of inappropriate presentation David Henderson was reminded of a story.

"It was at the time of the production of 'The Gondoliers,'" said Mr. Henderson. "The night before the opening the late John Stetson and I were watching the dress rehearsal. The opera was very pretty, but the cast was not equal to it. It was easy to see that a failure was in store for us. Stetson sat and scowled. Finally he leaned over to me and said, 'The name of this opera isn't 'The Gondoliers.'"

"What is it?"

"It's 'The Gondoliers.'"

Martin Harvey, the young English actor who vaulted into fame by his impersonation of Sydney Carton in "The Only Way," is an ardent devotee of Henry Irving, but he carefully eschews the imitations of that great English tragedian. Outside of his work as a member of the theatrical profession, Mr. Harvey's chief hobby is painting and sketching. He is considered a clever painter and also has some knowledge of sculpture.

He is very fond of dogs and rarely is without one of his favorite pets beside him when off the stage. When in London Mr. Harvey lives in a beautiful house in St. John's Wood. His holidays he spends at the seaside. During one of his visits to the ocean he boarded a small boat, where he did not fare to his liking. On going away he took his revenge on the landlady in a fashion of his own. His hostess as he was leaving asked him to write in her toiletinal book. He complied. The entry read: "Just four words—'I hate the room.'"

As the landlady had never read Edgar Allan Poe's "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," she was very angry. Her maid who followed

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Itanion Corral, who a few weeks ago is sworn in as the president of Mexico, is the first man to serve in that capacity in the Mexican republic. The Mexican constitution made no provision for such an officer. For a long time General Diaz did not want one around, but he is growing old and cannot serve many more terms. Last spring the constitution was amended to permit the election of a vice president. When the convention of the National party was held it named Senor Corral, minister of interior, for the office, and he was duly elected. It is generally expected that when President Diaz dies or retires Senor Corral will be his successor.

In many respects the Mexican vice president resembles a typical successful and polished business man of the United States. He is fifty years of age, has been reporter, editor, soldier, lawyer, member of legislature, governor, cabinet member and now is vice president. The story follows much like the recital of the career of one of the public men of the United States. As a matter of fact, the Mexican vice president is a good deal of a Yankee. Senor Corral is in the United States, is educating as many of his family of nine children as are of school age in Uncle Sam's schools and favors the closest social and commercial relations between Mexico and the great republic on its north. The state of Sonora, in which he was born and of which he was twice governor, is the most Americanized of all the Mexican states. Senor Corral is very popular with the Mexican people.

Senator William B. Allison of Iowa now holds the record for the longest continuous service in the United States senate. He has been there thirty-one years and ten months. Until recently the record stood to the credit of Senator Morrill of Vermont. The longest actual service record was made by the late Senator John Sherman of Ohio. His senatorial career was interrupted by periods of service in the cabinet, but altogether his membership in the senate covered but a few days less than thirty-two years. At least three presidents have offered Senor Allison the position of secretary of the treasury, but he has uniformly declined to leave the senate. But one position seems to him preferable to a seat in the senate—namely, the presidency—and several times that has seemed to be within his grasp. He is now at least seventy-five years of age his ambition in this direction is not likely to be realized.

Senator Allison is noted as being conservative and diplomatic. Although so soft and polite that he has gained a reputation for never saying "no" and the late John Hay once said that Senor Allison was so pliant-like that one could never tell whether he was coming or going and that he could walk from Washington to San Francisco on the legs of a piano without touching a note.

When a schoolboy Senator Allison was known as "Big Eddy Bill." A lady who went to see him in his home remarked: "Little did any of us think that boy would ever amount to anything. He was at the foot of our class and the butt of our jokes. He was such a greenhorn. He never wore any suspenders and was always hitching up his trousers like a sailor. When we girls made fun of him he would run after us, and if he caught one of us that girl was sure to be kissed."

Representative Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, who is considered one of the best orators in congress, was a failure in oratory as a youth at school. The one thing he could not do at the village school he attended in Weeks Mills, Me., was to speak in place. At sixteen he was six feet one inch in height and so awkward he could not get the school. He never dreamed at that time he would one day be able to command attention in the house of representatives.

Charles E. Littlefield, one of the most difficult places in the United States in which to make a speech, Mr. Littlefield has a great reputation as an orator in his native state, a reputation founded upon the strictest facts. He has made before public assemblies in campaign times. He has a splendid physique, acquired partly through his labors as a young man at the carpenter's bench. His father was Free Will Baptist minister who labored with hands as well as head, being a whitewash and carpenter. He took up the latter trade and after working several years at the bench and making up a little money began the study of law. He is considered one of the ablest lawyers ever produced by the Free Tree State and was recently designated as one of the prosecutors of Julius Swaney before the house of the United States senate.

THE ENGINEER'S SONG.

(Arthur Guterman in The Four Track News.)
Through city and forest and field and glen
I rush with the roaring train;
My strength is the strength of a thousand men,
My brain is my master's brain
I borrow the senses of him within
Who watches the gleaming line;
His pulses I feel through my frame of steel.
His courage and will are mine.
I hear, as I swoop on the upland curve,
The echoing hills re-joice
To answer the knell of my brazen bell.
The laugh of my giant voice.
And, white in the glare of the golden ray,
Or red in the furnace-light,
My smoke is a pillar of cloud by day,
A pillar of flame by night.

CONSUMPTION'S WARNING

Inside facts soon become evident in outside symptoms—cough, weakness, loss of weight, etc.

The aid of scientific inventors is not needed to determine whether your lungs are affected. The first symptoms can be readily noted by anyone of average intelligence.

There is no disease known that gives so many plain warnings of its approach as consumption, and no serious disease can be so quickly reached and checked, if the medicine used is Dr. Boecher's German Syrup, which is made to cure consumption.

It is in the early stages that German Syrup should be taken, when warnings are given in the cough that won't quit, the congestion of the bronchial tubes and the gradual weakening of the lungs, accompanied by frequent expectoration.

But no matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has already attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble.

Observations in Brief.

(William J. Bartscher.)

Try and you will triumph.

Don't do others. Do for others.

A good wife is her husband's best half.

A male order business—hence a husband.

Now is the time to do something for somebody.

The man in the auto has a right to "blow his own horn."

Tonguesless but not noiseless—the gasoline automobile.

Love is never so blind that Dr. Matrimony cannot open her eyes.

A thing to be admitted in carpet beating is that the job does not last long.

Some day every day will be pay-day for the man who has been working for the woman who does not.

The workman who does not lay up for a rainy day can hardly afford to lay up on a rainy day.

Since roughness retards the speed of the automobile, that ought to stop some of the agitation for good roads.

Wonder how many people had to be poverty stricken to make John D. Rockefeller the world's first billionaire?

Why is it that the man who sits in the ballroom corner when he goes to the theater does not crowd into the amen corner when he goes to church?

Suppose home industry should refuse to buy the product of the farmer who has indelicately patronized the mail order house? Wouldn't it serve him about right?

If it is due to the influence of Christianity that you are a Christian today, it should be due to your influence that someone not a Christian today will be a Christian tomorrow.

The three critical points in human life are: being born, selecting a life companion, and choosing between hell and heaven for a place in which to spend eternity.

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it causes the irritation—for a while. You take

One Minute Cough Cure, and it cures the cough, and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

Here and There.

Feed and pasture in abundance are what make fine, fat hogs and healthy pork.

The hog is useful on the farm as a saver of the refuse and extra milk.

Became an old sow has been valuable is no reason why she should be kept beyond her age of usefulness.

Flow up the hen yard this spring and sow oats, lettuce or rye. It will be a feed saver and an egg maker.

Of course the cow that is well born will always show her bringing up; but the man has more to do with her success than most of us admit.

A small nest and a large number of eggs is usually the cause of the first hatchlings being poor—the very hatches that we are most desirous should be successful.

He who puts the finest product in the market reaps the richest harvest.
Eggs are refined wheat, corn and grass, and they contain much that on the farm would go to waste.

The way to build up a thriving poultry business is to always send the customer a little better quality than he has any right to expect to receive for the amount paid.

If the hens have the run of an orchard they will not render as good service in protecting the trees from injurious insects as they will if confined in yards around the trees.

The south is dotted with extensive oil mills, and what was once regarded as refuse now brings nearly $100,000,000 a year to the south, but the mills take the best of the seed.

It takes more age to develop a heavy boned animal than it does a light boned one and the heavy boned animal does not sell as well.

To have horses get the greatest benefit from their feed give them sufficient time to masticate the food putting them to work after a meal.

Oats are the material which the roadster will turn into travel. A little careful observation will enable one to determine how much grain the horse ought to have.

Institute names as much as possible in securing forest conditions in the orchard by keeping the soil well shaded with mulch or some growing crop that can be worked back into the land.

Do not be afraid to invest $100 in a good dairy breed to head your herd.
See to it that this sire is a descendant of prolific milkers, and that he has good breeding qualities.

It is said that never before in the history of Kentucky has there been such a scarcity of mules, and in consequence of a heavy demand prices are unusually high. The exportation of mules within the past few years for war purposes is given as the cause of the scarcity.

Where the fowls are given a free range one male is sufficient to say each dozen hens, unless the variety is one which is very tame, when a greater number should be kept.

But where the fowls are closely confined, an average of one male is sufficient to keep for each dozen hens.

Culinary Concepts.

Granulated sugar makes a better meringue than powdered sugar.

Save rice water when you have boiled rice for curry, as it makes a very good foundation for stock or

Tidy Farm Laborers.

Farm hands in Yucatan wear Indian garments of spotless white.
When they become even slightly soiled, they hasten to change them.
Work is plentiful there, farm laborers are well paid, and they can afford to be tidy.

A Simply Test to Show the Productivity of Soil.

The state experiment stations are doing great work for the farmers.
The following incident shows how simple some of the tests are when you know how. A station official was going over a farm with the owner, when they came to a crawfish piece of land just back of the barn.
The very weeds looked yellow and unhealthy.

"I am inclined to think" remarked the agriculturist, "that this land is too acid for productivity. We can determine this in a moment."

Taking a blue piece of paper from his pocket, he stooped and dipped the paper into some of the soil. Water that was standing in a cow track, the blue paper changed to a red color as soon as it was immersed.

"There," said the agriculturist,
"we have our proof. This is just a piece of litmus paper. For 5 cents you can buy a similar piece at any drug store. Its change of color

A Successful Play.

Frank L. Perley's newly organized opera company which comes to the Morton's Theatre tonight in the comedy opera, "The Girl and The Bandit," has achieved marked success during its short career and has fully borne out Mr. Perley's prediction that it would rank as a worthy successor to the famous Bostonians.
The company comes to Morton's Theatre fresh from a record breaking seven weeks run at the Studebaker theater, Chicago, where "The Girl and The Bandit" was such a pronounced hit that the engagement was extended three times and the house was packed to the limit on the closing night. The book of the opera is by Mrs. A. G. Tyler and J.
Cheever Goodwin, and the lyrics were written by the famous Bostonians.

BOY LOST AND FOUND

Mrs. Nettie Durrett, of Chicago, wrote that her son Lacy was ill in Earlington.

CITY MARSHAL IGLEHEART FOUND HIM.

City Marshal Igleheart was busy yesterday searching for a small boy named Lacy Durrett, whom his mother had written was ill here.

The mother was very much alarmed. She addressed her letter to the "Postmaster, Earlington, Ky., and put on a special delivery stamp. Postmaster Robinson gave the letter to Marshal Igleheart, who began search at once and found the boy late yesterday evening at McGary's livery stable.

The mother's letter read thus: "My little boy, Lacy Durrett, writes me he is sick in your town. Will you kindly have the main people of your town to put him on the train, as I intend to have ticket at depot just as soon as possible. I will feel very grateful if you will do me this favor."

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. NETTIE DURRETT,
131 La Salle Ave.,
Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Igleheart at once telegraphed that the boy was found and he will be sent to Chicago as soon as ticket arrives.

GEORGE MADDOX.

L. & N. Conductor Captures Negro Murderer and Turns Him Over to Henderson Police.

Saint Radford, colored, formerly of Earlington, shot and killed Charles Randolph, colored, at Evansville last Wednesday night. The two men were drinking at Pope's saloon and Radford accidentally stepped on Randolph's foot. This act so enraged Randolph that he pulled a knife and slashed his enemy in the face and across the head. Radford pulled a gun and shot him killing him almost instantly. He then made his escape and boarded train No. 83 southbound of which George Maddox was conductor.

Maddox had heard of the murder while at the Evansville depot and when he saw the negro on the train with a gaping wound in his face and blood on him at once suspected he was the one wanted. After asking him several questions he became convinced as to his identity and bound him to the seat with a rope also tying his hands. When the train arrived at Henderson he was turned over to the authorities who were at the depot looking for him.

ISAAC DUNNING

Shoots and Seriously Wounds Ward Kirby at Mannington Saturday.

Isaac Dunning shot and seriously wounded Ward Kirby at a saloon in Mannington Saturday evening. The trouble arose over a bill owed by Kirby for whiskey and other things. Dunning had previously asked that the account be paid and when Kirby failed to do so garrulized his wages. When Kirby learned that his wages had been attached he became very much enraged and went to Dunning's place of business and began to abuse him. Dunning talked to him and used every means to pacify him but to no avail. The more he talked the more angry Kirby became. Finally pulling out his revolver he shot at Dunning who dodged behind the counter. This shot extinguished the only light in the house. When Dunning straightened up with his gun he could see only the bulk of a man standing in the door, he fired and Kirby fell the ball entered his eye and raged downward coming out his back under the shoulder. Assistance was summoned and he was carried to his home where medical attention was given. He is in a very serious condition and it is not likely that he will recover. Dunning went to Madisonville on 62 Monday and gave himself up claiming the shooting was done in self defense.

CLARK ALEXANDER

A Dawson Young Man Loses Leg and Arm at Princeton.

Clark Alexander, a seventeen-year old young man who lives at Dawson Springs, was horribly injured in the railroad yard at Princeton Saturday night. It seems he had boarded a freight train for Dawson and was hanging on the side of a car when he came violently in contact with a post in the yard breaking one arm and leg and otherwise injuring himself. He was removed to Dawson where his limbs were amputated. His right arm is also badly mangled and the physicians think it may be necessary to amputate this also. The young man is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

Why not tell the exact truth in American paper, and say that it all depends on whether a man "makes good" or not? In this country we reduce everything to the basis of efficiency. If a man can play thoroughly good ball after he is 30, he will not be denied a professional engagement on account of his age. The same thing is true in every kind of work.

There was a very sad accident occurred near here yesterday. Mr. Thomas Polard's daughter was riding in a two-horse wagon and in jumping out fell and fractured one of her lower limbs near the ankle joint. Drs. Williams and Durham were summoned by telephone, who soon arrived and reduced the fracture and the young lady was resting very well at last report.
